Digital Transformation: Engaging people in your organization

View Archive Play Audio

Presenters:
Chris Williams (Root Inc.)

In 2019, 40% of all technology spending will go toward digital transformations, with enterprises spending in excess of $2 trillion. Expensive new technology is being integrated and processes are being refined with the end goal of making organizations smarter, faster and more customer-centric. The problem is many organizations aren't necessarily doing a great job of bringing their people with them on the journey. Attendees of this session will learn: 1. The major components to successfully engage your entire organization in your digital transformation - bridging the gap between strategy and

A webcast is a media presentation distributed over the Internet using streaming media technology to distribute a single content source to many simultaneous listeners/viewers. A webcast may either be distributed live or on demand. Essentially, webcasting is "broadcasting" over the Internet.

The largest "webcasters" include existing radio and TV stations, who "simulcast" their output through online TV or online radio streaming, as well as a multitude of Internet-only "stations". Webcasting usually consists of providing non-interactive linear streams or events. Rights and licensing bodies offer specific "webcasting licenses" to those wishing to carry out Internet broadcasting using copyrighted material.

Webcast Auditorium

The Auditorium is where you can attend live webcasts or pre-recorded sessions. The presentations will commence once you select the corresponding "Attend Webcast" buttons, located on the right side of the panel.

To activate a pre-record or attend a live session, on the left you may scroll through the list and select the blue "More Info" button you are interested to attend, and on the right the corresponding "Attend Webcast" button will appear for you to select.

To attend a live webcasts successfully, please make sure JavaScript and Java are enabled in your browser. If needed, verify or download Java here.

Chatting Feature

Group and private chats are available throughout the event, in all rooms and booths. At the bottom of each page you will see a chat feature. On the right, you can view the profiles of the people who are in the room or booth with you currently. You can chat with everyone simply by entering your comments in the entry field and hitting "Send". It will send your comments to the public chat window.

If you want to make a comment to one person specifically, just click their profile and then check "whisper". This will result in only you and them seeing the comment in the public chat window.

If you would like to have a private chat with someone, simply right click their profile and choose private chat. A new window will open where you and they can chat one-on-one.

When someone is trying to initiate a private chat with you, you will have a pop-up appear indicating who would like to chat privately. Simply click on "Okay" to have your session begin in a separate screen.
